SUMMARY STATEMENT

Mx. Kinney is a social worker and community-based researcher with five years of post-MSW experience engaging in health care and micro, mezzo, and macro organizations. They have an extensive history of publications, presentations, and macro practice with particular expertise in transgender and nonbinary health equity and wellbeing. Mx. Kinney's work exemplifies a reciprocal relationship between social work practice and community-driven wellbeing research to improve marginalized individuals' lives. Their translational research aims to reduce inequities and promote wellbeing and social justice by developing affirming practice, inclusive policy, and emergent social workers prepared to work alongside communities.
